DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 3-6, and 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kunitomo et al (US 5,436,503).

Kunitomo et al disclose the method of producing contact surfaces for connecting two substrate comprising the steps of applying solder material to the first substrate, and bonding the first with a second substrate by partial fusion (figure 3, col. 6, lines 17-28). The first substrate is provided with intermediate metallization (12) prior to applying solder (figures 6 and 7). The spacing metallization (9) is a spherical shape. An adhesive compound (13) is applied to the spacing metallization (col. 6, lines 25-18). A gap between the first and second substrate is filled with a filler material (14) (col. 6, lines 29-35) to secure the mechanical joint.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kunitomo et al .

Kunitomo et al disclose the claimed inventions above in paragraph 2, but fail to disclose the adhesive compound is introduced by immersing the spacing metallization in volume of the conductive adhesive compound or means of an application device which can be moved relative the spacing metallization.

However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time applicant's invention was made to either apply by immersion or application device, since Kunitomo et al disclose applying the adhesive compound in order to promote bonding. Therefore, any method of applying the adhesive compound would have been obvious and depending on the design choice.

Art Unit: 1725

6. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kunitomo et al (US ' 503) as applied to claim 2 above, and further in view of JP 03291938 A.

Kunitomo et al disclose the claimed inventions above, but fail to mention fusing with laser means to the spacing metallization.

However, JP '938 discloses the method of laser heating of the spacing metallization (abstract and figure 3) in order to promote bonding between the metals.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time applicant's invention was made to provide laser as heating source as taught by JP '938, in Kunitomo et al in order to promote bonding between the two substrates.
